

Addressing Behavior Challenges with Dementia “ABCD”

Improving quality of life for persons with dementia and their family caregivers

Program Details

An Interactive Workshop of the VA Geriatrics Scholars Program in collaboration with UCLA

Need:

The incidence of Alzheimer’s Disease has risen dramatically among American Indians and Alaska Natives. It is important to expand the ability of those who work directly with families in the community to support family caregivers of persons with dementia with resources to address challenging behaviors and with criteria to address health and safety issues when they arise.

Goals/Outcomes:

- Recognize (or identify) dementia
- Recognize challenging behaviors that can be addressed by non-pharmacological interventions and distinguish them from behaviors that require medical intervention
- Educate family caregivers on behavioral solutions and monitor implementation goals
- Communicate to clinic team and to family caregivers about healthcare needs requiring immediate intervention

Topics:

- Primary Prevention
 - Control of diabetes and hypertension
 - Promote brain health
- Secondary Prevention
 - Recognize signs and symptoms of undiagnosed dementia
 - Identify dementia using quick screening tools
- Tertiary Prevention
 - Home safety for persons with dementia
 - Caregiver education on non-pharmacologic management of challenging behaviors
 - Self care for caregivers

Participants:

Rural clinic public health nurses, social workers, and community health representatives are invited to attend.

Faculty:

The program is cofacilitated by a geriatrician and an educator from a VA Geriatrics, Research, Education and Clinical Center (GRECC) of Excellence and the UCLA Division of Geriatric Medicine.

Advantages:

On-site, full day program or half-day options, resources provided, CME/CEU accreditation.

Coordinating Site:

Geriatric Research Education & Clinical Center (GRECC) at the VA Greater Los Angeles Health Care System

Josea Kramer, PhD, Director

Funded by the Office of Rural Health, U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs

For more information, please contact:

Coordinator: Maribel Garcia, MPA

(310) 312-0535 / maribelgarcia@mednet.ucla.edu

Director: Josea Kramer, PhD

(818) 891-7711 x36085 / BettyJo.Kramer@va.gov

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs
Veterans Health Administration
Geriatric Research, Education, and Clinical Centers

Veterans Health Administration
Employee Education System